Prelude Seaholm High School, Class of 1962, 45th Reunion

On one pleasant Saturday a few years ago, Greg and Patsy Frontier were drawn to an exhibit of amazing photographs at a farmer's market near their home. To their surprise, the photographer was high school classmate Char Bosworth Follis. Chit-chat followed as did the suggestion of a possible class reunion. This seed, nourished by an agreement by Greg and Char to "throw together something," led to this weekend's wonderful celebrations. (Although she said she wanted to be removed from the planning, Patsy did her part, including nametags and decorations and boosting up Greg when he thought he was nuts for taking on this task.)

THANKS GO TO GREG AND CHAR FOR ALL THEIR WORK!

NOTE: Char's photographs are exceptional and many focus on the Detroit area scene. (They would be wonderful keepsakes for all of you out-of-towners, as well as for those who still live in the area.) Visit her website: www.thegiftedeye.com.

Once the reunion became a possibility, Greg and Char needed a little help and other classmates stepped up to the plate. They made life a lot easier for Greg and Char.

Kudos go to Bob Anderson for his great work on the Seaholm website. With www.seaholm62.org we have been able to keep updated about the reunion and we now have a site where we can go to check out what's happening with our former classmates.

Finding members of the Seaholm Class of 1962 was a daunting job considering it's been 45 years! Barb Clark stepped into "detective mode" and spent hours on the internet and, using various search engines, found many of our "lost souls." Her diligence is definitely appreciated and requires a big "thank you" from all of us.

Although extremely busy trying to meet numerous deadlines for her editors (she writes for various magazines) and completing her next book, Sandra Dalka-Prysbly "foolishly" (her word) agreed to do the Memory Book. ("How exactly did Greg rope me into this?!" she has said every day for weeks.) She even finished up the writing just days after she had surgery for repair of a torn lateral meniscus. ("A sports injury and not due to my somewhat-advanced age!") Thanks, Sandy, for all your hard work—again! (She also wrote the memory books for our 20th reunion.)

WRITER'S NOTE: I apologize for any mistakes, misspellings, etc. I tried my best to provide you with an interesting update on classmates. (Just to let you know, if I was getting paid for this endeavor, based on my average per-word magazine fee, I would have made more than $16,000...$16, 569, to be exact...so don't complain!) I know there are “holes” in this book. This is because we either couldn’t find a particular classmate, or some of the people we found did not respond to our request for info. At any rate, enjoy what we did discover about the amazing Seaholm High School Class of ’62!

Two great places—Traverse City and Stuart (FL)—are where Dan Akerley and his wife of 38 years, Nancy, call “home.” Retired from General Motors Tech Center, Dan and his wife have two children and one grandchild. In addition to travel, Dan is enjoying working part-time on golf courses in both Michigan and Florida. Contact info: 8729 Center Rd., Traverse City, MI 49686; TCCherry37@aol.com and, according to Dan, they are in the telephone book in both cities.

Larry Allingham, Hillside Medical Center, 250 Fame Ave., Suite 102, Hanover, PA 17331

After graduating from the University of Michigan, Sandra (Alpert) Shulak got married and moved to Toledo, Ohio. She and her husband, Jerry, have a 39 year old daughter, Stephanie, who graduated Phi Beta Kappa, also from the University of Michigan. Stephanie has given them two grandsons, Zachery, 7, and Max, 4. Sandra also has a son, Bradley, aged 37. Sandy and her husband moved to Scottsdale, AZ in 1987 where she founded a tutorial service with 40 tutors, valley wide. She sold that business in 2000, and officially retired in 2004. Contact info: 11333 N. Scottsdale Rd., Suite 160, Scottsdale, AZ 85254; JShulak@imhre.com

Wayne Andreae, 3910 Will O Way, West Bloomfield, MI 48323

After receiving a BA from MSU—she majored in painting—Susan (Atkinson) Straw started applying for jobs and discovered that employers were more interested in how many words she could type. “Fortunately, after several jobs, I found the advertising industry.” She had a graphic design business for 25 years in the Chicago area. Susan married twice and has a 23-year-old son, Andy. (He’s completing college at Tennessee Tech this winter.) Susan and her husband, David, moved to Tennessee five years ago. “In order to pay for my medical insurance, I found a job working for a timeshare company in Fairfield Glade. She moved on to selling burglar alarm systems and surveillance equipment,” she says. “I quickly learned my way around the hills of Tennessee and I have a few stories about that experience.” Two years ago, Susan became intrigued by the real estate opportunities in Tennessee. She got her license and has been helping folks find their retirement dream fulfilled. “I love my work and enjoy all the people I’m blessed to help.” Contact info: 13 Norwood Place, Fairfield Glade, TN 38558; (931) 456-2268; sue@crossroadslistings.com; straw916@frontiernet.net.

“Holy crap!” Those are the words uttered by Tim Baehr when he heard about this reunion. The reason for the words: he had just looked at the Seaholm yearbook, which he was packing for a move from Boston to Portland (ME). “Eerie coincidence!” Since life is hectic right now—selling a house, moving, etc.—he provided just a brief synopsis of his life: “I’ve been an editor or writer in various publishing and high-tech jobs since graduating from U of M. Married twice (am still married to my second); have three boys and two grandsons.” Tim retired two years ago. “We discovered that we had enough money, but what really got us off the dime was my diagnosis with prostate cancer in 2003. Surgery was successful, and my wife and I have since joined an exercise program. Now we’re probably healthier than we were in our 30s.” Tim got interested in the men’s movement in the late 70s and has attended various men’s weekends and retreats. He publishes a monthly newsletter for men—<http://menletter.org>—and contributes a quarterly column to www.lifesherpa.com. Contact info: tbaehr@aol.com.

Albany, NY, has been home to Fran (Baldwin) Otto for the past 30 years. The mother of three daughters—Heidi, Holly and Heather—is the grandmother of five, ranging in age from 20 months to 9 years. Fran has been single for five years and during that time returned to college to earn her B.A. degree in English. Contact info: 4 Rockledge Ct., Ballston Lake, NY 12019; fotto1@nycap.rr.com.

Dow Jones closed year at 652.10.

Although disabled with migraines, Connie (Bassett) Harrigan Lee is, according to her, none the less very happy. Connie lives with her second husband—who is Asian-American and a few years younger than her—near Santa Cruz (CA). It was after she left Minnesota and moved to California “to find myself,” that the then-divorced mother and former teacher for those with learning disabilities (she has a master's degree from the University of Minnesota) met her current husband while she was selling computers. Her daughter, who attended Yale, lives in Florida with two Chihuahuas and works for an educational company that plans leadership seminars and experiences for junior high and high school students. Connie and a friend started a meditation group eight years ago for people with chronic illnesses and disabilities. This venture is, according to Connie, "very satisfying 'work'." Nearing the end of a complete remodel of their Arizona home is what is on the horizon for Bruce Bates and Doris, his wife of 19 years. (She's a retired attorney.) After Bruce graduated from the University of Arizona in 1969 with a B.A. in history, he went into investment/portfolio management, first with Valley National Bank of Arizona and then Northern Trust. He retired from Northern Trust in Chicago in 2004. His son Brad works for Bank of America in Phoenix and he has five grandchildren (on his wife's side). According to Bruce, "we like to travel; spend time with family and friends; and with the rest of the day, we like to read, exercise (and, no, I can't keep up with Jack Bachelor running those distances anymore); listen to music (we leave the playing to Steve Chandler, Steve Collister, and probably still Terry Hill); enjoy a Starbucks or two and a drink or two, and continue to enjoy working on investments." If you have some traffic problems, you might want to talk to Dick Beaubien. An associate at Hubbell, Roth & Clark, Inc. and its transportation director since 1989, he has 39 years of experience in municipal traffic engineering, transportation planning, highway design, traffic system operations, right-of-way acquisition, and Intelligent Transportation systems. Dick is a past international president of the Institute of Transportation Engineers. (He has a bachelor's degree in civil engineering and a master's degree in transportation and traffic engineering from the University of Michigan.) He and his wife, Mary Jo, have three children and two grandchildren. (The third is due later this month.) His passion is racing Lightning Class sailboats – over 30 races so far this year. Contact info: 1685 Ross Drive, Troy, MI 48084; (248) 643-0729; dbeaubien@comcast.net.

You just might see Cheryl (Bethards) Starzinger and her husband, Fred, somewhere on the road in their motor home. After working as an insurance adjuster for 30 years, Cheryl retired in 2000 and she and Fred began to explore this beautiful country. ("Alaska is our favorite destination!”) As much as they like cruising around the country, they love being home in Florida where they spend a lot of time walking, fishing and air boating. With one daughter living nearby and three grandchildren and one great-grandson, life, according to Cheryl, is full and lots of fun. Contact info: 7833 E. After completing college, it was 23 years working for the US Government and Military (traveling all over the US and overseas) for Trish (Bingham) Romer. Married in 1972, she has two children, a son and a daughter. Trish divorced in 1982, and retired in 1992 and came back to Michigan. “I got bored with retirement and went to work, for seven years, for the Palace of Auburn Hills.” She fully retired in 1999 and headed to Florida to enjoy the sun and hurricanes. Eastern Washington in the desert became home in 2006 so she could be closer to her children and grandchildren. “It’s very, very hot and dry and I’m really enjoying every moment with my family.” Contact info: 3324 S. Beth (Boersma) Gordon, 4236 S. Greenstone, Grand Rapids, MI 49546

She married her high school sweetheart. She had two redheaded boys 13 months apart. She is now an accomplished photographer. Who is she? The “she” is Charlotte (Bosworth) Follis, a moving force behind this reunion. Married to Skip Follis (Seaholm Class of ’61) for 43 years, their boys—Dave (a teacher) and Brad (a firefighter like his father)—are married and have given Char and Skip three grandchildren to spoil. After years as a legal secretary, Char got into photography and has sold her beautiful and artistic work for the past nine years on Saturdays at the farmer’s market near the courthouse on Pontiac Lake Road. (She has a website—www.thegiftedeye.com—where her work is also available.) Char and Skip, who is now retired from Bloomfield Township, escape for a few weeks in the winter to Florida and went on an Alaskan cruise this July. Skip just purchased a ’35 Ford, which should be in the parking lot during the reunion and on Woodward during the Dream Cruise. Mountaineering replaced swimming in Jim Bradburn's life...but that isn't the only change. An All-American swimmer in college (Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, New York) and the College Division National Champion in 1964, Jim married Gayle Fernandez in 1964 and graduated in architecture in 1967. (It was a five-year program.) He then joined fellow high school and college classmate Carter Dinkeloo's father's firm in Hamden, Connecticut. After 12 years with this firm and two daughters, Elizabeth and Jill, the Bradburns moved to Denver, Colorado in 1980 when Jim started his own firm. (It grew to 100 people and did work all over the country and world.) Jim, who has climbed several mountains around the world, retired from architecture in 2004 to the mountains in south central Colorado. He and his wife will soon celebrate their 41st wedding anniversary and are the proud grandparents of three. Contact info: 99 Bradburn Road, Cotopaxi, CO 81223; (719) 942-5052; jim@ranchobendito.com.

ABC joined NBC in offering a few hours of color telecasts. (All three networks were transmitting in color by 1967.)

I don't know folks, but I (your overworked writer/editor) think Bill Bramblett just might have lived the most curious/interesting (?) life these past 45 years. After majoring in "partying" at Miami University (Oxford, OH) and being tossed out twice, he moved to Chicago to continue studies at Columbia College (and on Rush Street.) His military deferment expired and he was drafted in 1966. ("I joined the Navy in self defense.") Bill reports that he was sent to California in '67, the "Summer of Love," and played guitar and sang up and down the coast of southern California, with a stint in San Francisco, until he got out of the service in 1970. He then attended the San Francisco Art Institute of Filmmaking; got married in 1970; had a daughter in 1971 (she now has three boys and lives in San Diego), and in 1972 opened a restaurant/ night club, the now legendary Sleeping Lady Café. ("This is where my major partying played a large role.") In 1980 Bill founded Wildwood Natural Foods (organic tofu, soymilk and other packaged foods). He retired from this venture in 2006, but serves as a consultant in the package food industry. The divorced entrepreneur remarried (wife, Alicia Keshishian) in 1994. Together they have a Tibetan carpet business (Alicia designs the carpets, which are made in Nepal) and she was featured in the July (2007) issue of Real Simple magazine on page 194. (Go to www.acarpets.com.) Bill, who enjoys mountain biking, tennis, palindromes, cryptic crosswords, organic gardening and, of course, partying, is still playing and singing. (Latest single: "Sign Me Up for the Organic Rebellion." Contact info: 717 Oak Terrace, Petaluma, CA 94952; (707) 344-5999; billib@billyfood.com.)

This month Carole (Brodie) Glaza is celebrating her 41st wedding anniversary with her husband Doug. They have two sons who have made them grandparents four times over (three girls and a boy) and a daughter who was married last year. ("We're hoping to see the family expand soon!") Still living in Royal Oak, Carole works part time for a small investment firm in Birmingham. "But I'm thinking about retirement!" Contact info: glazacarole@hotmail.com.

Lexington, Kentucky is where you will find Barbara (Brown) Boyer and her husband, Carl. Barbara retired from nursing and Carl from General Motors. She says they enjoy visiting their blended family "consisting of seven families and a total of 17 grandchildren." (Whew!) They like to travel and are involved in volunteer activities with their church and community. Contact info: HeyHouston@aol.com.

If you need a yoga teacher or an award-winning baker, Starlet (Brussel) Giarratano is your “go-to gal.” (Her baking recently won two first places and a third in the San Diego County State Fair.) But yoga and baking for contests aren’t the only interest of this avid health nut. After attending various colleges—Brooklyn College, Arizona State University, San Diego State University and Oakland University (she finally completed college in 1979)—Starlet went to New York, found her husband (they’ve been married for 42 years) and stayed for 7 1/2 years. The wife and mother of two—Stella, 41, and Vivian, 39—went first into real estate and owning her own business; taught math in Spanish, and then ended up as a deputy assessor for the county of San Diego. She also formed a “mature ladies” dance group at her church and served for 10 years as the group’s director, choreographer, costume maker and “anything else needed.” The grandmother of four retired from the assessor’s office in 2000. “Never give up” is a perfect mantra for Steve Chandler. After he “failed dramatically” at a variety of careers, including sportswriter, advertising copywriter and songwriter, he became a success coach and personal achievement speaker. And he didn’t let all that past writing experience go to waste. He has authored 16 books—two (Two Guys Read Moby Dick and Two Guys Read the Obituaries) with co-author and fellow Seaholm classmate, Terry Hill. Steve recently appeared as a coach on the daytime reality series Starting Over, which was cancelled shortly thereafter. (Steve’s appearance has nothing to do with the cancellation!) Steve has four children and one grandson, all of whom remain, as of this writing, on the right side of the law, which he refers to as “one of life’s pleasant surprises.” He and his wife, Kathy, live in Arizona. Steve’s hobbies are comedy and voice impressions, both of which he has cultivated while dealing with creditors over the years. Contact info: 1124 N. Gibson St., Gilbert, AZ; (602) 616-5784; STEPHENDCHANDLER@cs.com.

First communications satellite—Telstar 1—was launched.

A self-described “Luddite” because she has no cell phone, no answering machine and no cable TV, Barbara Clark is enjoying her retirement from Exxon Mobil Corporation’s Downstream Treasurer’s Department. (“A few years ago I was in the right spot at the right time to get a nice enhanced early retirement package.”) Barb has one dog (“Mister,” a Wire Fox Terrier) and lives 25 miles northwest of center city Philadelphia on a mountain just above Valley Forge National Park. (“Note to all Coloradans: in about a billion years the Rockies will look just like the mountains in Pennsylvania.” Her mountain has foxes, all kinds of birds, two coyote dens and way too many deer. Barb adds that she’s not much of a bird watcher—except for hawks—but recently saw three pileated woodpeckers while on a walk. When she leaves her mountain domain, Barb likes to vacation on Prince Edward Island. Contact info: 1708 Knob Lane, Phoenixville, PA 19460; (610) 783-0941; bclar833@yahoo.com.

Both the computer industry and the academic community have benefited from their association with Dr. Frederick W. Clegg over the years. He is currently on the Computer Science Department faculty at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo. After earning a bachelor’s degree in engineering science at Oakland University, Fred headed to Stanford University where he earned a master’s in electrical engineering and a Ph.D. in electrical engineering with a minor in computer science. In addition to positions in academia—he’s taught at San Jose State University, Stanford and Santa Clara University—he has held engineering and management positions in the computer, telecom and embedded systems industries. Flying is another passion for Fred who is a FAA-certified flight instructor with instrument, multi-engine and seaplane ratings. Contact info: fclegg@calpoly.edu.

Ask Susan (Collins) Ashcraft what she did on her summer vacation this year and most likely she’ll regale you with a wealth of information on Uganda, where she spent the month of July. (Her younger sister has been working in this African country for five years for renowned primatologist Jane Goodall.) The Colorado (Boulder County) resident has two daughters—Jenny, 42, and Hattie, 41—and three grandsons (18, 11, 9). “I’m lucky because they live in Colorado and I’m able to spend a lot of time with them.” Susan, who graduated from Ferris State University, worked for St. Vrain Valley School District (Longmont), then Boulder County Social Services, and finally was the Clerk to the Board for Boulder County Commissioners. She became a “retired lady” earlier this year, which will allow her more time for her favorite activity: traveling. (For 25 years she traveled to Mexico with friends and family every spring.) Contact info: 728 Wade Road, Longmont, CO 80503; (303) 682-3292; Susan-Ashcraft@comcast.net.

Semi-retired, Steve Collister, who was divorced in 1984 (Sue MacLean, Seaholm, Class of '61), dates a little, spends time working on an old wooden speedboat and, according to him, is "still the luckiest guy on the planet." He spent the 80's and 90's doing marketing/advertising/training (senior writer for Jack Morton Productions/ Chicago; editorial director-video...then first creative director...then senior writer/ creative director for Maritz Communications. "After Maritz got tired on me, I did freelance for a decade (until early 2001) and now do a little consulting, a little carpentry and a fair amount of begging (perhaps you've seen me by the expressway)." The business manager of a local medical group and "ready to retire yesterday," Barbara Cronise has lived in California since 1970 (San Francisco and the Monterey Bay area) and has a daughter, Alice, 25 and a grandson and another on the way. She has been taking classical piano lessons since she was 50 and she is on the board of the Santa Cruz Chamber Players as a publicist. "For the past couple of years, I've been writing concert articles for the local papers," she adds. Currently Barb enjoys gardening, reading, writing, PBS, Cheney-bashing and making trips to Arizona to see her daughter. "Except for a visit to the UP a few years ago (during that fantastic autumn color) I've rarely been to Michigan because my parents moved back to the family property in Harpers Ferry while I was at MSU.” Barb would like to hear from old friends and those who survived Miss Bernecker’s “Drop Your Bottoms” class or were a victim of Mrs. Cooch’s pond study. Contact info: 708 Sunset Dr., Capitola, CA 95010; bcronise@charter.net.

“The Jetsons” and “The Beverly Hillbillies” were top TV shows.

When it comes to life achievements Sandra Dalka-Prysbys lists her 30-year marriage to Tom, three grown children and granddaughter—Andy, 28, is a MSU grad and advertising exec in Chicago; Libby, 26, and her husband, both U of M grads, are parents of 18-month-old Charlotte and living in Tennessee, and Emily, 24, also a MSU grad, is a Detroit area marketing manager—a 170-pound weight loss; a published book, Slow but Sure (hardcover, Doubleday; paperback, Signet), and a wealth of friends. (She might even consider being in Richard Simmons’ exercise video, Platinum Sweat, an achievement...Naaaah!) A Wayne State University graduate, she is a former newspaper reporter, an executive White House appointee (under Richard Nixon) and has freelanced for local and national magazines and publications for more than 30 years. She is currently hard at work—“at least I was until this d___ memory book” on her second book. Contact info: 30155 Leemoor Drive, Beverly Hills, MI 48025; (248) 642-4575; sdprysby@hotmail.com.

Extreme remodeling on the St. Clair River, specifically on their Algonac get-away home, keeps Jim Daniels and his wife, Sandi, busy, as does their family. They have two children, Troy and Jennifer, son-in-law, Eric, “two grand kids”—Riley and Kiera, and one BIG Newfoundland (Dakota). Jim works for the US Army and lists his hobbies (besides remodeling) as motorcycling, photography and boating. “Before I acquired the language and persona of my students,” Gail Davison says she retired from teaching at a juvenile detention facility in Dearborn two years ago. Now she is indulging her passions of gardening and antique furniture restoration. “I have a business, which does not do much for the economy, but does keep me occupied and at home.” Gail adds that being outdoors or in her workshop is far better than a lock-down school building. “My four kids are all very well and I now have a most sensational grandson born in July who bears the long limbs of the Davison clan. ‘Grandma’ is the best title I could have...gray hair and wrinkles being the accompanying badge of honor.” Gail’s travels take her to the west. Her eldest son lives in Oregon; her youngest daughter in Arizona. “Very good places to visit.” Contact info: 19050 Saratoga, Lathrup Village, MI 48076; gdavison912@comcast.net.

After working for the City of Troy for 16 years as a personal and real property appraiser, Marlene (Drew) Haack retired in 2005. “I thought I would have a lot of free time, but that has not been the case,” says the grandmother of two boys, Danny, 6, and Tyler, 3, whom she and her husband of 40 years, Bob, watch two days a week. Their son, Andrew, and his wife and family live in Royal Oak; their daughter, Kimberly, lives with them. Marlene took a master gardener class from Oakland County and is fulfilling required volunteer hours at the Detroit Zoo and Bowers Farm. She is also part of the “Mob Squad” that works at the Outback (kangaroo) exhibit at the zoo. Contact info: 3359 Woodcrest, Rochester Hills, MI 48309; haackm@comcast.net.

Two daughters—Angela (23) and Grace (21)—and 27 years of marriage to Chauncey DiLaura mark some of the achievements of Emily (Edwards) DiLaura. Both daughters attended/attend college in California. Angela works as a research assistant in epidemiology and plans to attend graduate school; Grace’s interest is genocide and she plans to study this growing practice in Croatia during her senior year. Emily is a real estate construction lender for First Bank (St. Louis). Her husband is a commodities trader. You can take the girl out of state, but, according to Corinne (Fischer) Yeates, “the values I learned in Michigan made me what I am today.” What the more than 30-year Southern California resident is today is the owner of her own business, JFF Uniforms, which specializes in manufacturing uniforms and costumes for the restaurant, casino and entertainment industries. (Her company, which she started in the mid-70s, is supplying all the cocktail waitress uniforms for the newly remodeled MGM Casino.) The mother of a grown son, who has joined her in her business, and a realtor daughter, who gave her a beautiful 18-month-old granddaughter, Corinne recently remarried—he’s a retired banker. They live in Palos Verdes. Contact info: corinne@corrigh.com or corrine@cox.net.

People and animals are the subjects of the photographs taken by Sumner (Sam) Fowler. He’s worked for 27 years at the Marin (California) Human Society as photographer and maintenance supervisor. He says “my kids over the years have been Emily, Sara, Clark, Ruby, JC Ruben, Loretta, Angus, Gus, Rita and Rose.” His best friend is Diane, his wife for more than 43 years. Contact info: 448 Ignacio Blvd., PMB-255, Novato, CA 94949; sumner@peoplepc.com.

Having a house in the Hamptons is what is keeping Barbara (Francis) Musser from our reunion. The house draws lots of visitors—“it has become a focal point for family and friend get-togethers,” according to Barb. She and her husband, Bob, are both retired from Mobil Corporation and have two grown daughters and two “grand dogs.” The Mussers live the greater part of the year in Alexandria (VA) and support environmental causes and pursue outdoorsy activities, including hiking, sports and bird-watching. Contact info: Cobb Rd., Water Mill, NY 11976; bobmus@aol.com.

After earning a BA in marketing from MSU, since the Vietnam War was in full swing and being drafted was almost a certainty, Tom Franklin signed up for R.O.T.C. and became a Commissioned Officer in 1967. (“Most of my cohort graduates, including Gary Faigle from our Seaholm class, stayed on for graduate school delaying the inevitable call up for duty.” In 1968, Tom earned an MBA, married his college sweetheart and entered the Army. “I signed up for Germany hoping the war would end. Fortunately it scaled down and I never had to go to Vietnam.” While in Germany, the couple’s first son was born. After leaving the Army and getting a job in industry, the Franklins moved to Peoria where we had a second son. Four years later, they were transferred to Appleton, Wisconsin, and had a daughter. “We really loved the area and have stayed.” After tiring of the Fortune 500 corporate world, in the 1990’s Tom went back to school, earned a teaching certificate (“along with an MA and MS that just kind of happened”), and got a job teaching civics and world studies in Appleton. “It was one of the best things I ever did as I really enjoy it,” he says. “I can work as long as I want to and I plan to continue several more years.” His wife of almost 40 years works in the healthcare industry. According to Tom, “Seaholm gave me a good education that led to a very good life with lots more to come.” Contact info: 4417 N. Windingbrook Dr., Appleton, WI 54913.

It Happened in 1962

Teens were dancing to Sam Cooke’s “Twistin’ the Night Away” and Roy Orbison’s “Dream Baby.”

“Baby watch” is what is keeping Bob Fredrikson away from the reunion. (Fifth grandchild is due anytime!) Bob married Jean Hasey (Marian High School, Class of 1964) in 1968 and has three lovely daughters and four other grandchildren. He graduated from U of M—undergrad and grad school (MBA)—and worked first in St. Louis for a military contractor and then as a marketing manager for Xerox Corporation. In 1978 he moved to Boca Raton as has been there ever since. Semi-retired, Bob still puts in a couple days at the office where he works primarily on real estate and asset management. Travel is what keeps the Fredriksons busy during their spare time, especially trips to see the grandchildren in North Carolina and Atlanta. (Editor’s note: I also assume they like visiting their daughters!) They also “go west” a couple times a year for a month or so. Contact info: 2878 Banyan Blvd. Circle NW, Boca Raton, FL 33431; BFBOCA@aol.com.

One of the forces behind this successful reunion, Greg Frontier says he probably plays golf too much and his wife, Patsy (Gordon), agrees. (How did we get him off the links to get the job done?) Greg, who retired in 2000 after more than 33 years of “hard labor,” worked for Burroughs/Unisys in Detroit/Plymouth in Finance/Information Technology before he was transferred to Hoffman Estates (IL) for 10 years. (“Just in time for two of my three daughters to qualify for out-of-state tuition at U of M.”) While in Illinois, he coached softball and soccer, the latter resulting in travel to 10 states for soccer tournaments. In 1997, he transferred back to Plymouth, Michigan. According to Greg, after retiring from Unisys, he double dipped for a while at Kmart in Troy where he helped install a web-based transportation system. “Unfortunately, the several million dollars of annual savings was not enough to keep Kmart from bankruptcy. I left Kmart along with several hundred thousand other employees as the company restructured and moved its headquarters to Hoffman Estates...something ironic about that!” He’s now enjoying retirement, three grandchildren and, of course, golf. Contact info: 1829 Watkins Lake Rd., Waterford MI 48328; gfrontier@aol.com.

High school sweethearts Dick Fuller and Judy (Gontz) Fuller are still going strong after 40+ years of marriage. (Dick thanks Mrs. Blunt, senior English, for her patience and romantic heart.) “Having escaped the rat race of Washington, DC,” according to Dick, they are enjoying retirement in Tucson, AZ. “Besides the tennis, golf, swimming and other amenities our community offers, we continue to pursue our interests in travel and photography.” The Fullers welcomed in the New Year on a New Zealand cruise and this spring they toured China, including a Yangtze River cruise. “Only 1,600+ pictures of New Zealand and 3,300 of China...digital cameras are terrific!” He adds: “As for being rich and famous...we are rich in love and life experiences, however the “famous” continues to elude us. So far none of our film credits have been released.” Contact info: 37725 S. Arroyo Way, Tucson, AZ 85739; (520) 818-0822; rjquest@wbhsi.net.

After having a great time at college and graduating from U of M with a BS and an MBA, Bill Gebo went to work for Dow Chemical Company, first in Midland (MI)...then in Houston...then in Brazil...then back in Houston...then in Belgium and finally back in Midland. He retired in 2004 after 36 years of managing various parts of Dow’s logistics and transportation function. During his last few years with the company, he was involved in lobbying efforts in Washington (DC), including testifying before the Senate Commerce Committee and the Interstate Commerce Commission. He and his wife, Berta, have two sons and a daughter and three grandchildren. (One son lives in Royal Oak; one in Chicago, and their daughter lives in Houston.) The Gebos live on a lake near Midland and Bill enjoys golf, boating, fishing, skiing and foreign travel. "I also make 'adventure' trips to various parts of the world (mountain and jungle treks, white water rafting, scuba diving, etc.)" Contact info: 3525 N. There's a song in Geoffrey Gilbert's heart...really, more than just one. He currently sings in a men's barbershop chorus and in July participated in the chorus competition at the Barbershop Harmony Society's international convention in Denver. If that wasn't enough, this year found him at the 40th reunion of the Michigan Glee Club, which did an around-the-world concert tour in 1967. Also, he joined his mother to celebrate her 90th birthday on July 21. Geoff has been married to Susan for 39 years—they met at U of M—and they have two children, Joel and Whitney, and three grandchildren, all of whom live in Nashville. The proud grandfather, who says he keeps busy gardening, traveling, gardening, golfing and more gardening, practiced law in Chicago from 1969 to 2002. Along the way, he did some teaching, served as a mediator and served as an administrative law judge for the City of Chicago. Mary (Gollogly) Buehler reports that “fortunately and unfortunately,” she is still working as a travel agent. (“Only two years to go...I never thought I could hardly wait to be on Medicare.”) Her husband, Jay, has been confined to a wheelchair for several years due to MS so Mary is now his main caregiver. (“But he does have great faith and a big smile.” For a little and much needed R and R, she was able to go to Cabo San Lucas at the end of July for a few days. Mary is proud of the achievements of their son, Marc, who became the new CEO of Texas Land and Cattle Company and Lonestar Steakhouses on August 1. He will be traveling around the US for the company’s 280 restaurants. (Previously he was the CEO of Tony Romas and had to go around the world four or five times a year.) Their daughter-in-law is a third grade teacher. Mary and her husband are also grandparents to Allison, 11, and Reid, 8, both of whom are totally into Texas sports. According to Mary, she does quite a bit of gardening...”or at least as I can do living in a villa.” She extends an invitation to come and stay if you’re in Kansas City. Judy (Gontz) Fuller—See Dick Fuller.

After 20 years of child-rearing and various school and extra-curricular involvements, Patsy (Gordon) Frontier taught English at Harper College in Palatine, Illinois, “for five memorable years.” She also volunteered as “picture lady” for the elementary school and continued to play the violin in a community orchestra, activities which she enjoyed in Michigan. With three daughters, her time was also spent attending numerous school events as a parent-cheerleader and visiting several states with soccer teams. “I am now spending time with my three grandchildren and trying to learn a new role,” says Patsy, who would also appreciate any advice on this subject. Light cooking, light reading, light gardening and dabbling in creative endeavors take up some of her spare time. She adds that adjusting to retirement has been a challenge since her husband, Greg Frontier, plays too much golf. Contact info: 1829 Watkins Lake Rd., Waterford, MI 48328; gfrontier@aol.com.

A 100-year-old house with a big, billowing garden in the Beaches district of Toronto keeps Paul Grissom and his wife, Ann, busy. Summer weekends find them on an island in a remote northern lake in a former old trembling hunting shack, which they have been remodeling a little bit every year for 20 years. After a satisfying career in advertising—he won numerous awards for creative excellence—he is now sole proprietor of a small creative/marketing consultancy which specializes in social marketing. The father of two says it's inevitable that he would settle in a career of social activism. After a fun-filled but unsuccessful year at U of M, Webb Hecker transferred to Oakland University where he earned a B.A. in political science and met his wife Anna. Realizing he was unemployable, he enrolled in law school at Wayne State University. Still wishing to postpone adulthood, it was on to Harvard Law School for an LL.M. After a few years of law practice in Detroit, he discovered that he liked law school much better than practicing law. So it was off to Lawrence, Kansas, in 1972 and the University of Kansas Law School where Webb finagled an associate professor appointment. He's been there ever since. The Heckers, parents of two grown sons—Matthew, 32; Jacob, 28—and grandparents of two boys, reside on a 150-acre farm where Anna pursues her avocation as a master gardener. When Webb isn't at law school, he can be found windsurfing on one of the local lakes. (He notes that Kansas translates roughly as "People of the South Wind.") Countryside living not far from Richmond, Virginia, is where you can find Kay (Heikkinen) Davidson these days. Her house is strewn with toddler toys (two grandkids, ages 3 1/2 and 2 1/2), dog beds and stacks of books (included in those stacks are works of distinguished authors from our class: Marcia Muller, Terry Hill and Steve Chandler). Editor's Note: Hey Kay, so where's my book in your stacks? Kay and her husband (married 41 years) are both retired, he from banking and she from private practice of clinical psychology. Much of her time these days is spent with family – elderly (very) parents, kids, etc.—and, more recently, as a participant in a spiritual mentoring program. ("I am a definitely a student in this arena; not one of the teachers.") According to Kay, "the reunion bulletins have evoked many memories. Life has been good since she left Seaholm, says Kathie (Helper) Dizik, a U of M grad. After college she taught in the Birmingham Public Schools—“It was a strange feeling working with those who had been your teachers!” When she and her husband, Paul, (they’ve been married 40 years) became parents—they have a son, Mark—she became an at-home mom and got involved in school things (PTA and field trips) and her son’s activities. (Mark is now 32 and Kathie is waiting for him to get married and make her a grandmother!) She has worked for many years managing her husband’s CPA office. “A professional community volunteer, average golfer and fun grandma.” This is how Elise (Hendrixson) Barnhart describes herself. Her husband, Sam – her new bionic man thanks to hip resurfacing surgery – continues to work in sales and advertising and is preparing to semi-retire next year. The Barnharts have two married children and a grandson, all of whom live within an hour of their Fond du Lac home “so we’re lucky.” According to Elise, “we play golf in the good weather and love to spend winter vacation time in Hilton Head, South Carolina.” During the spring and fall, they spend time in Spooner, Wisconsin... “bet you’ve never heard of it!” She reminds all of us that “60 is the new 40!” Contact info: 992 Golf Vu Dr., Fond Du Lac, WI 54935; (920) 907-0457; eliseb@charter.net

Calling the last 45 years “exciting,” might not be the best definition of Terry Hill’s life, but it’s close. Married since 1991 to his second wife, Miranda Lee—he was previously married (1966-1985) to the former Trudi App (Seaholm ’63)—he has two sons, Lincoln, who lives in Lathrup Village, and Andrew, who lives in Toronto, and three grandsons. After getting a BA from U of M and a law degree from Wayne State, Terry spent 30+ years in the advertising field with Young & Rubicam, J. Walter Thompson, Vickers & Benson and Grey Advertising. He worked in Detroit, Toronto, New York, London and Paris (“the last three constituting the hat trick”). The Hills currently live in New York and San Miguel de Allende (Mexico). In 2005, his play, “Hamlet—The Sequel,” won the Playhouse on the Green playwriting competition and was performed in Bridgeport (CT) in October. That same year, his first book (co-written with Steve Chandler), Two Guys Read Moby Dick, was published. According to Terry, “the premise of the book was that we hadn’t read Moby Dick when Miss Allen assigned it to us in junior English and we decided to make up for it by reading it in our 60th year.” Their second book, Two Guys Read the Obituaries, was published in 2006. (Both are available at Amazon.) “My high water mark...so far...came in 1986 when I was quoted by Susan Sontag in the New York Times. I am in no way suggesting she got all her ideas from me, but clearly I was an influence.” Contact info: terrynhill@hotmail.com.

“The Miracle Worker” and “Lawrence of Arabia” were top movies.

After graduating from Seaholm, Christoph Hoffman returned to Germany to finish his secondary education and then studied economics at the Free University of Berlin. He then transferred to the University of Wisconsin (Madison), got a BA in history and went to law school at Harvard. He practiced law with a Boston law firm helping to set up its London office and then decided to move into the corporate world. “I started at Textron, Inc. in Providence, RI, then moved to Pneumo Corporation in Boston and finally to Raytheon Company, also in Boston. At Pneumo and Raytheon I combined legal and business roles, spending a lot of time doing mergers and acquisitions. In 1998, I decided to change my lifestyle and retired from Raytheon and focused on family, charitable work and some ongoing consulting and board activities.” Now in the 25th year of his second marriage, his wife, Susan, helped him raise his three children (from his first marriage). “Kristen, our eldest, is a cardiologist practicing in the Berkshires in Western Massachusetts. She has two children, Bella (7) and Alex (5), our only grandchildren to date. Our son, Sam, lives in Red Lodge, Montana where he founded a micro brewery some nine years ago.

(To my delight, he invited me to be a director and we consult frequently on how to meet the insatiable needs of a growing business. One burden of office is the requirement for frequent quality control visits to the brewery.) Finally, Susie, our youngest, is also following an entrepreneurial path. She recently opened a design studio in Bozeman, Montana, which specializes in the interior design of spas and health facilities and associated living spaces.” Chris adds that he is quite delighted with the chance to touch base with the Class of 62. Yale University Divinity School is where Virginia (Keim) Brooks received her master's of divinity degree in 1969 and where she met her husband, Ed. (They were married in the chapel on the quad the weekend before commencement.) Following graduation, the couple was employed as teachers at an independent boarding school (Northfield Mount Hermon) in western Massachusetts. "This school proved to be a good fit, so we stayed on for 36 years, serving as teachers of religious studies, house parents in various dormitories, and even a dozen years as co-chaplains," she says. (Both Virginia and Ed are ordained ministers in the Presbyterian Church—U.S.A.) They have one daughter, Laura, who grew up on the Mount Hermon campus and went on to the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University. She is now an analyst with the Department of Defense, currently in the midst of a 3-year posting in London. "Happily we've crossed the pond for the last two Christmas seasons to share the holidays with her and enjoy the many attractions of that vibrant cosmopolitan city,” according to Virginia. Two years ago, Virginia and Ed retired to their lakeside home in Harrisville, New Hampshire. “We’re involved in this small community and co-chair the local association of neighbors around our pond. We have also kept a hand in teaching by serving as curricular consultants for a summer camp for teenagers focused on current issues of ‘church and state’ sponsored by The Interfaith Alliance based in Washington, DC.” She adds: “As perhaps others of you have also discovered, as retirees we enjoy being able to set our own pace and daily agenda now.” These happy retirees also have done quite a bit of traveling, including a month and a half in India earlier this year. (“Ed served in the Peace Corps there and we’ve made six trips to India over the years. We plan to return in February to do some volunteer teaching in a village in Rajasthan and then join a tour of several places in Thailand and the historic temples at Angkor Wat in Cambodia.”) Contact info: 103 South Road, Harrisville, NH 03450; ginny_brooks@nmhschool.org.

From Seaholm to the US Navy to Ohio University was the path taken by Tim Kling. Along the way came a wife (he married in 1967), two daughters and four grandkids. Tim worked for the Akron Fire and Fairlawn Police in Ohio for 31 years before being diagnosed with colon cancer in 1994. The next two years brought surgery and chemo and, eventually retirement on disability. “I’m loving every minute of every day,” he adds. The Klings have a 12 1/2-acre hobby farm in Medina, Ohio, which, he says, “keeps me very busy doing most of the things I love to do.” Tim has some concerns about the next reunion. “The last one was for 33 1/3 years; this one is for 45 years. That means the next one will be for 78 years and we’ll be 96 years old!” Contact info: kling.timothy@gmail.com.

Before the knees give out, Susan (Koeneker) Polich and her husband, Larry, who both really enjoy traveling, have lots of places to visit. Since 1985, the Polichs have lived in Houston. They have two married children—a daughter in Houston and a son in Maryland—and three grandchildren. Sue retired from teaching in 2001 and has worked part-time ever since as a teacher at a Kumon Learning Center tutoring students in math and reading skills. Her husband is also retired. According to Sue, “I’m always trying to improve my golf and bridge games, but my most favorite time is spent with family and friends—especially our grandson and two granddaughters.” Contact info: 3506 Sycamore Shadows, Kingwood, TX 77339; (281) 359-4789; skpsusu@yahoo.com.

The television program JAG brings back memories for John (Mac) LeFevre. After earning a law degree from University of Michigan Law School (he received his B.A. in English from Williams College), Mac served as a captain in the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve and spent his early career trying cases in JAG (Judge Advocate General). After practicing law in New York State, he has made his mark as an experienced litigator for the past 30 years in Minnesota with Kennedy & Graven and its predecessor firm. (He is currently a shareholder and formerly served as the firm's president.) His specialties: eminent domain, employment and labor matters and government liability. Away from the office, he is an avid marathon runner, a golfer and has coached football, soccer, basketball and baseball. Contact info: jlefevre@kennedy-graven.com.

Life is simple and good, according to Diane (Lerminey) Forbes, who is always on the lookout for fun things to do in the southeast Michigan area. "Detroit is beginning to shine again!" To pay the bills, she is the communications manager of an engineering software and product development "think tank" in Troy (MI). "Marketing advanced IT, branding new products and acting as managing editor for the company's B2B customer magazine is the most challenging work I've ever done, but I have certainly learned a great deal." When Diane has time off, she heads for Maine in the summer and the Dominican Republic in the winter. Both of her kids are single and on their own ("a blessing for all of us"). Dana, 32, sells and designs for a custom linen rental company. Steve, 30, is an aspiring actor with two small movie roles to his credit. Until he is officially "discovered," you can find him tending bar at Streetside Seafood, one of Birmingham's favorite watering holes. According to Diane, she is still heavily addicted to most music, laughter, her garden hammock (with a book, of course), dear friends and large bodies of water. Former ED NOTE: "Let's give a long round of applause to Sandy for taking on the memory book project this time. It's an enormous commitment of time and energy. Thanks, Sandy." Nancy (Manegold) Malinowski walks a lot...but this activity is for a great purpose. A breast cancer survivor, she does numerous walks and events to further breast cancer research. She participated in the very first three-day walk from Santa Barbara to LA. ("The walking was great; the camping not so great!") Nancy still lives in LA with husband Jay, but will be relocating to St. George, Utah when Jay retires. Also, they recently purchased a home on Lake Michigan in the southwestern part of Michigan to be closer to three of her children, who live in Niles. Her fourth lives in Morro Bay, CA. Other than acquiring grandchildren, Nancy loves to travel and garden. Contact info: 11082 Plainview Av, Tujunga, CA 91042; (818) 952-4364; cowdancer@netzero.net.

"Life is good and I love my job so retirement is not planned any time soon," says Dan Mathews, who is Executive Vice President for an international trade association (food service, coffee service and vending). Dan also dabbles in real estate development and has just completed a 29-lot project in Petoskey. ("Still plenty of good ones left for sale!") He lives in Barrington, Illinois and works in downtown Chicago. Four of his five children and two of his four grandchildren live in the Chicago area; the others in Colorado. Dan, who is unable to make this reunion, says "I'll just have to hold out for the 50th to visit with the Class of '62, which should really be a 'kick'." Contact info: dhmathews@aol.com.

We have our very own Seaholm "spy" in John McKendry, who lives within walking distance to the old school yard. He is retired from the fast-paced life of a corporate controller (computer software company), but continues to stay busy as a CPA doing income tax work during the winter months. According to John, he is still bitten by the travel bug and has visited six continents in the last six years. Recent visit was to South Africa, Botswana and Victoria Falls. John's Seaholm report: "Over the years the high school ushered in many improvements, including new wings, a state-of-the-art theatre, a new media center and improved athletic facilities. More construction is in high gear. A brand new gymnasium has been built next to the former gym. The former gym is being razed to put in a super-sized pool. The former pool is being converted into a fitness center. (Our tax dollars at work, as they say.)" Other facts: "In addition to advanced placement and honors classes, the curriculum now includes calculus and Chinese. According to the local newspaper, 301 seniors graduated this year. Nowadays seniors take their finals early and finish before the end of May. The other grades (9-11) continue on into June." Contact info: 358 South Cranbrook, Bloomfield, MI 48301.

A small town in Indiana is where Gerald McNerney has plied his skills as an attorney for 34 years. After graduating from Western Michigan and a two-year stint in the US Army, Jerry went on to receive his law degree from Indiana Law School in 1972. Two years earlier he married Kathryn and they have two children and four grandchildren. According to Jerry, "I miss my pal Terry Cousineau. God rest his soul." Contact info: P.O. Box 368, Butler, IN 46721; (260) 868-2121; gmm10@mchsi.com.

After spending 34 years teaching middle school in Evanston, Illinois, Marilyn (Merker) Fisher, is now thoroughly enjoying retirement. (She retired in 2000.) She travels often with her mom "by car, boat or plane." Although the two-some especially likes going to places where they haven't been, Marilyn says they manage to get back to Kauai fairly often. "I also enjoy visiting friends and seeing what life is like in other parts of the country." When she is not traveling, you can find Marilyn working at home weeding the garden, riding her bike or doing crafts. "Right now, I'm looking for a place to live that is on the water and warmer than Chicago. (Note: she's looking for suggestions.) Contact info: 8315 Monticello Ave., Skokie, Illinois 60076; (847) 677-1831; fisher1020@aol.com.

Since our last reunion, Sharon (Merritt) Pugh and her husband, Ed, have become grandparents. "We are fortunate that Jake, 8, and Hadley, 7, and their parents, Diana and Bob Moak, live within walking distance." Diana is an attorney and works with Ed at Pugh & Associates, P.C. Their other daughter, Deborah, is also an attorney and works with the Appellate Division of the Public Defender's Office in Chicago. Sharon reports that she enjoys quilting and gardening and "we are looking forward to the time when we can spend more time at our cottage in Charlevoix." Contact info: Sharonmp44@aol.com.

Ann Arbor's loss is Sacramento's gain. After living in the Michigan city for more than 30 years, Bob Moustakas and his wife, Katharine Burnett, who teaches Chinese art history at the University of California-Davis, have been enjoying their urban Mid-Town Sacramento lifestyle since 2001. After 20 years of teaching and "practicing photography," Bob does seasonal work for HR Block, which allows him the opportunity to join his wife on trips to China (last year's trip was for six weeks and included a week in Tibet) and to their West Virginia farm, where they often visit with long-time friends, John Perry and his wife, Judi. Besides his beautiful, intelligent and talented wife, Bob counts among his blessings their two grown children—daughter Sacha and son Misha—and the fact that both live nearby. Contact info: 1705 H. After graduating from Seaholm, Fred Muenchinger attended U of M. Three degrees and 10 years later, he graduated with dental specialty degree in prosthodontics. Fred practiced and taught at the university's Dental School until 1975. After 10 years of practice in Traverse City, he and his wife, Christine (he met her the first day of classes as a freshman at U of M), moved to Tampa, where he continued to practice in his specialty. Three children, 40 years of marriage and three grandsons top Fred's list of accomplishments. He says he rarely gets back to Michigan because when he and his wife travel it is to visit his children, who live in San Francisco, Washington, DC and London (UK). "The Miracle Worker" and "Lawrence of Arabia" were top movies.

There's no mystery about what Marcia Muller has been doing all these years. But wait! "Mystery" has a lot to do with this successful world-famous author. It's the theme of the 32 novels she has authored—three in collaboration with her husband Bill Pronzini. Marcia set out to be a writer and attended U of M where a creative writing instructor told her she would never be a writer because she had nothing to say. She turned to journalism, earned a master's degree, and became a freelance writer. When her editors called her on her embellishment of facts—which she added to make her articles more interesting—she began to write mystery novels in the early 1970's. It took almost ten years before she became a published author and the rest is history. The “Mulzins,” as friends call them, live in Sonoma County, CA. Contact info: marciamuller1@mac.com.

After graduating from Seaholm, David Naylor attended Western Michigan University (BA in chemistry/biology) and then joined the US Air Force and served five years working up to the rank of Captain. He went on to graduate from The American Graduate School of International Management (“Thunderbird” –the school not the wine!) in Phoenix with an MBA/MIM in international management. As he moved up the corporate ladder in the medical equipment business, he worked in Hong Kong, Japan, Australia and South Africa and then to Boston to run the parent company. London and setting up his own businesses (in medical equipment) is where he landed in 1983 and where he continues to live. Along the way, the now-single, well-traveled businessman had three wonderful daughters, “who keep me young and constantly confuse US Immigration authorities with their US passports and English accents.” According to David, “I have lived a peripatetic life having visited 107 countries, and living in three fantastic cities: Boston, San Francisco and London. I plan to move to the Pendaries Mountains in New Mexico and split my time between there and London at the end of 2008.” Contact info: slian@vosnet.co.uk.

California claimed another of our classmates in 1972. Duane Nelles and his wife Gail (Gail Trainer, Seaholm Class of 1964) live in La Jolla. Their two married sons and two grandchildren live nearby. Duane graduated from Albion in 1966 and U of M (MBA) in 1968. He began his business career in public accounting (he was a partner with Coopers & Lybrand). In 1987 he moved over to venture capital and grew a successful business. Duane retired in 1998 and he and Gail, who he married in 1967, play lots of golf, travel and spend time with family in La Jolla or at their other home in Sun Valley Idaho. Over the years, Duane has served on numerous public company boards and currently is on the board at Qualcomm. At our age, a visit to Chuck Nida might prove beneficial since he's an attorney (Honigman Miller Schwartz and Cohn in Detroit) specializing in estate planning. (Then again, it might be too late for some of us!) The Wayne State University graduate, with degrees from Monteith College and the Business Administration School, went on to graduate from Harvard Law School in 1969. He and his wife, Nancy, have been married 41 years and have two children, Felice, 37, and Jeremy, 34. Thus far...no grandchildren. Having not one, but two doctors in your family can prove a benefit to those our age...and that's exactly what Joan (Osborn) Henkle has! She and husband Rick, who met in the early 70's when they were both in the Peace Corps in Chad, Africa, have twin sons, Ben and Greg, 29, who are both physicians. Their oldest son, Jeff, 32, is an engineer. He is married to a nurse practitioner (another bonus in terms of health benefits) and has two boys. (Two grandsons: an even bigger bonus!) After earning a BS in nursing from U of M in 1966, Joan has returned to school twice, earning a MS in nursing and later a Doctorate in Nursing Science degree in health policy and health of the community at Indiana University. (Wait! That means three doctors in the family!) Joan has taught nursing at the college level and has managed two home health agencies. For the past several years, Joan has been on the faculty of the Masters of Public Health program at the Indiana University School of Medicine. "My mother, who some of you may recall, is a healthy 91-year-old and lives nearby in a retirement community." Through 39 years of "better or worse," Barbara (Oyen) Caputo, has been married to her husband, Tony. According to her, "the best of the 'better' are our three grandchildren—two in California and one in Massachusetts. The worst of the 'worse' was the loss of our youngest daughter to Leukemia in 2005." Barbara is treasurer of Carla's Champions, the charitable organization they formed after their daughter's death. "I have the opportunity to help young families struggling with cancer." Lately, according to Barbara, she works a little and travels a lot. Golfing, skiing and lots of knitting also occupy her time. Of all the things she does, being a grandmother is the best. "I love being a Granny. It seems that I relate well to people who are 60 years younger than I am." Fishing and playing with raccoons is how John Perry spends his retirement in the middle of the woods of West Virginia. (He's lived there since 1975.) The Vietnam vet graduated from Oakland University (psychology); married Judi Rau (Bloomfield) and has two daughters, Toby and Ana. His career life has included, serving as a counselor, working at a sawmill and a glass factory, owning a wholesale business and a real estate company and doing real estate appraisals. “I have been fortunate to have spent most of my adult life in such beautiful, friendly surroundings.” He adds that he counts his time spent with the Class of ’62 as a great time in his life. Having four boys in six years wasn’t enough for Susan (Peters) Glassford, who married her high school sweetheart (Fred Glassford, Class of ’61). She then went on to work for Herman Miller and as a Herman Miller dealer for the last 25 years; she specializes in healthcare design and interior furnishings for labs, pharmacies and clinical areas. The four Glassford boys are now grown (Scott, 40; Jamie, 39; David, 37, and Kirt, 34), and have provided the blessing of nine (soon-to-be 10) grandchildren. You just might see Bill Prahler hanging around tennis courts or lacrosse fields. (Don’t worry. He’s not a stalker!) Bill coaches these sports (tennis at Waverly High School in Lansing and women’s lacrosse at MSU.) He reminds everyone that “our class was part of the very first wave of developing lacrosse in the state of Michigan. Presently there are 40 women’s and 80 men’s teams in the state. Seaholm won the state title in women’s lacrosse in 2007!” After a 37-year career, he retired from teaching. He and his wife, Cheryle, will be off to Ireland in October for some rest and relaxation. Although Claudia (Purdy) Kupsis misses Philadelphia and some very good friends and the Sunday New York Times, she is finally back home in Michigan, which she says “just seemed like the right thing to do.” (A second grade teacher and reading specialist, she retired from the Philadelphia School District.) Claudia lives in Lake Orion (next to Canterbury Village) and loves it. “I forgot how big the sky is out here and at night, I can see the stars. My Boston terrier has discovered real grass to roll in.” She is also excited that she has a driveway and a garage “that are mine and all mine!” And, she adds, “the help in the stores are actually friendly...I feel safe (which is a good thing)...Michigan summers are actually comfortable!” (Note: Claudia would do well in a “I Love Michigan” ad!) Contact info: ckupsis@sbcglobal.net.

According to Kathryn (Ruhl) Allen, she and her husband, John, have so enjoyed their 40 years together. (Their 40th anniversary is tomorrow, August 19.) They have a married son, Joseph, 31, who with his wife, Michelle, are parents to Emily, 4, Micah, 1, and the newest addition to the family, four-month-old Medina, who had been abandoned in Ethiopia. Kathryn reports that “intellectual history, our great love, still keeps us on ‘college hours’ in endless discussion. For us it’s true: ‘to become deep in history is to become a Catholic’.” (She and her husband converted to this religion four years ago.) Her special memories of her Seaholm days include playing Mr. Bagg’s (Seaholm drama teacher) little sister in “Five Finger Exercise” for the Village Players in the fall of 1961. “Sweetie” and “best friend” is how Karen (Schaule) Bessey describes her husband, Sam. (They recently celebrated their 10th wedding anniversary.) Karen, who lives in “God’s country on the outskirts of Tawas City (MI) in Alabaster Township with four horses,” has been helping to take care of her six-year-old granddaughter, Jessica, (her daughter Kristine’s child), who has spinal muscular atrophy. (August is SMA awareness month. The disease is the top genetic killer of children under the age of two.) “I couldn’t have been more proud of Jessica when 25 days before her third birthday she sang the National Anthem at the Whittmore Speedway,” she says. “She didn’t miss a word!” Karen has four children, two stepchildren (a stepdaughter died in an automobile accident in 2000), nine grandchildren (a grandson died in 1994), 11 step-grandchildren (my son’s step-son died in an automobile accident in 2005), and three step-great grandchildren. “Whew!!!” she adds. “My greatest joy is enjoying my life with God, my husband, family, friends, my big babies (the horses) and thanking God for being blessed with it all.” She also enjoys singing and being active in the Women of the Moose. Karen will be coming to the reunion with Glenda (Foltz) White, who would have graduated with the Class of ’62 had her family not moved away. Contact info: karenbessey@yahoo.com

Horses, chicken and goats keep Bill Shroyer and his wife of 39 years, Ellen, busy in central Arkansas. Gentleman and gentlewoman ranchers (their small ranch is 120 acres), they have four grown children and 10 "absolutely brilliant" grandchildren. After graduating from MSU, Bill joined the Naval Flight program (to avoid the draft) and flew in the Navy for five years. In 1982, he joined up with another MSU grad to become a factory (automotive supplier) owner in Pontiac. (This led to eventually owning four companies.) In 2005, Bill did a stock swap with his partner and he took over the Little Rock operations, which he merged with an Italian factory in Cremona. "Italy is not a bad place to go a few times a year!" He currently is president of Splash SuperPools, Ltd. The Born Again Christian says he has done more things and been more places than he has deserved to do and go. "I have been incredibly blessed!" A “Jack”...make that “Jill” of all trades is an apt description of Lauri (Smith) Beldo. After high school, she studied art at U of M; worked in the order department for U of M Law Library; managed a Hallmark shop; was a church administrator; taught art and academic classes to grade school gifted and talented students, and, currently, serves as office manager and bookkeeper for her husband, John, who has practiced dentistry in Michigan’s Upper Peninsula since 1973. Her true passion is her art, which she exhibits locally. Her work has been in juried art shows in Michigan and Wisconsin and was selected for permanent hanging in the Cancer Center of Bay Area Medical Center in Marinette (WI). Dallas (TX) is where Cece (Smith) Lacy lives, but “home” for this very successful executive has been the boardroom. “For the past 20+ years, I have had a venture capital fund which has invested in retail and consumer companies such as PetsMart, CompUSA, White House/Black Market, Red Envelope and Jamba Juice. It has been great fun to work with entrepreneurs while they are building their businesses into regional or national chains. Another highlight was having the opportunity to serve on the board, including three years as Chairman, of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas.” Cece is now in the process of retiring from the venture business. “I will continue to serve on some public company boards. I am on the board of Brinker International (Chili’s, Maggiano’s, Romano’s Macaroni Grill, On the Border), was on the board of Michaels Stores until its recent sale and just joined the board of Pier 1 Imports.” Although Cece reports that she has been very fortunate to have had a career that she has loved, the best part of her life is her marriage to Ford Lacy for 29 years. “Ford retired several years ago (his millennium gift to himself) after an intense and highly successful career as a deal lawyer. New York Yankees won World Series by defeating San Francisco Giants by four games to three.

“Sublimely single.” This is how Kindy (Squibb) Sura describes herself. She has lived in Incline Village, NV, since 1977 where she raised her two daughters—Shelly, 41, and Kristen, 39. Kindy is the proud grandmother of three granddaughters—Sydney, 8, Camryn, 5, and Sage, 3. After she graduated from nursing school in 1973, she worked in Denver in a cardiac step-down unit...in Incline Village in the ER...and then in the Palm Springs area as a Registry RN. “I now spend the winter months in the Palm Springs area playing golf and remodeling (myself) the small home I bought in 1980 in Palm Desert.” Kindy still has some loyalty to Michigan—“it’s in my blood”—and comes “home” for about 10 days every summer. She looks forward to the reunion and “I’m wondering if a secret high school crush will be there.” NOTICE TO ALL ATTENDEES: Let’s keep an eye on Kindy and check out who she spends the most time with! Kathy (Squire) Almeida, DCKERBOW@aol.com.

When Shanna (Staples) LaTessa Hixson attended a grief support group after losing her husband of 32 years, John A. LaTessa, to bile cancer in 1997, she met a widower, who lost his wife of 30 years to bone cancer. “We started to have coffee after the meetings, and the rest is history!” She and Blaine Hixson have been married seven years and live in Auburn Hills. Shanna (with her first husband) has two children—John Jr. (Scooter), who with his wife, Lisa, are the parents of Andrew, 9, and Emma, 7, and live in Birmingham, and Lisa. She and her husband, Chuck, live in Bloomfield Hills and have two children, Casey, 6, and Cayden, 4. Contact info: BLAINEH6@aol.com.

Tab openings for soda pop and beer made their first appearance.

Happily entering the 34th year of his marriage to Ann, Tom Stevens—“it has been a great joy.” The Stevens family consists of three children: two girls, Lisa and Lyn, and a boy, Tommy and seven grandchildren thus far. Since 1992, they have owned Wolverine Recycling Services, which is a supplier of recycling and waste handling equipment and systems to industry, commercial enterprises and municipalities. “We travel quite a bit, both for business and pleasure. Recently, we were able to combine business with pleasure for a trip to Iceland.” Tom and his wife are still very active with the University of Michigan Club of Detroit and the Athletic Departments’ Scholarship Programs, although that is now phasing out. Also, they are deeply involved with the Troy Methodist Church, especially in the Stephen Ministry Program. “We see this type of service work as the transition phase...eventually, semi-retirement.” Contact info: 518 Wyngate Drive, Rochester, MI 48307; (248) 608-0602; cell—(248) 310-7636; wolverinerecycling@sbcglobal.net.

Connie (Stewart) Pim, RR2 750 Reeve Avenue, Mattituck, Long Island, NY 11952

Among the still-working is Murray Stewart. He continues as an insurance agent in Indianapolis and is now married (has been for almost 11 years) to Valerie, the girlfriend he brought to our last reunion. They are grandparents six times over. (Their oldest grandchild is 4 1/2; youngest, twins, just months old.) Working in their yard and on various home projects keep the Stewarts busy. Murray credits his wife as “the talented and creative one” and, because of her talent, they have been selected twice for the local garden tour and the historic home tour. “I am now wise enough to pretty well agree with Valerie’s vision for things around the home.” Contact info: 812 Campbell, Indianapolis, IN 46219; (317) 322-0252; Mstewart@AULSemlerFinancial.com.

So what’s Ronald W. Straley concealing? It could be a pistol...but don’t worry. The retired Certified Public Accountant—he retired in 1999—has a license. Ron graduated from Parsons College where he was affiliated with Sigma Pi fraternity (Gamma Zeta chapter). With an interest in golf, bowling, shooting, taxes and fast cars, he has added a whole lot of letters to his life over the years. In addition to CPA, he’s a member of MACPA (Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants), NSAC (National Society for Accountants for Co-ops) and WWCCA (Western Wayne County Conservation Association. The divorced father of two (ages 32 and 29) retired in 1999. (“My dogs keep me active.”) Contact info: 17361 Hidden Lake Way, Northville, MI 48168; 248-347-2125; (cell) 248-755-6604; rwstraley@comcast.net.

Summers in Cleveland, Ohio, and winters in Hilton Head, South Carolina, is where you can find John Strang and his wife, Gay. After graduating from U of M (BA, 1966; MBA, 1968), he joined the firm now-named Accenture and worked in the Detroit office until 1978 when he became a partner and transferred to Cleveland. John left this firm in 1983 to begin buying companies and continued to buy and operate various companies until 2001 when he sold everything and retired. The Strangs now spend their time golfing, skiing and traveling. Contact info: Tudberry@aol.com.

Riding a camel in Egypt earlier this year was quite an experience for Kitty (Taylor) Sparrow. “I lost my husband in 2005 and I am trying to take the trips that we had planned to do together while I’m still in good shape for walking, climbing, etc.,” she says. (A trip to Europe will keep her away from the reunion.) She adds that her daughter, Kelly, has told her it’s time to stay at home and settle into the grandma role—“something I also love.” (She has one granddaughter, 10-month-old Kendall.) Her son, Jay, is also married, but has dogs and cats; not children. Kitty plans a move to San Clemente (to be closer to Kelly’s family and the beach). She gardens and volunteers for Children’s Hospital of Orange County and the Nixon Library. “I get to see Linda (Prior) Lauderbach often, which is a nice treat!” Contact info: 1635 St. James Court, Carlsbad, CA 92008; (760) 994-0285; kitty.sparrow@pacbell.net; ksparrow97348@adelphia.net; (after October 1) ksparrow97348@roadrunner.com.

Sylvia (Thompson) Milton can often be found babysitting for her two-year-old grandson, Henry, then “it takes me several days to recover.” The retired teacher—she taught ESOL (English for speakers of other languages)—has two sons, 32-year-old Jon (he and his wife are Henry’s parents) and Todd, age 28. She’s thrilled that both sons now live in the area. While she cannot join us for this reunion, she’s penciled in our 78th one, in keeping with the record theme of our last and this reunion. (Let’s see...that will be in 2040!) Contact info: 12037 Trailridge Drive, Potomac, MD 20854; (301) 762-4456; sylviacharlotte@verizon.net.

If things get a little too exciting at our 45th reunion, we won't have to worry. We'll have our very own cardiologist—Dr. Bruce Tinker—on hand in case of an emergency. After getting his BA (biochemistry) from MSU, Bruce worked at Dow Chemical for a year in Midland. He went on to earn his MD from Wayne State; specialized in internal medicine at George Washington University, and cardiology from West Virginia University. Since 1980, he has been working hard in his cardiology practice—Mount Vernon Cardiology—which now has seven associates. He and his wife, Pam (his second wife whom he married in 1979), have a son, Robby, who graduated from Oberlin and is now working for Bill Richardson in Iowa, and a daughter, Becca, who just completed her first year at the University of Oregon. “Pam and I like to go to our mountain house, which is 90 miles west of Washington, DC, to get away from the hubbub, and we travel when we can. (Earlier this year they had a wonderful trip to Ireland, and they went to Ecuador last year.) According to Bruce, he still plays a little tennis and skis. Chuck Tischer, ctischer05@comcast.net.

There was a “Buzz” around Seaholm when we were in school, but Chuck Townsend says he hasn't used this nickname, except for family, for 100 years. This is probably because of his very professional lengthy and successful career in media, which, he says, he thought would never end. “But the end's in sight, and I'm looking forward to it” according to the Chuck, who has served as president and CEO of Conde Nast Publications in New York for the past decade. He previously served in the same position for the magazine division of the New York Times Company and as general manager of Hearst Magazines. His two daughters are grown—one lives in Geneva (Switzerland) with his two grandchildren; the other works with him. He lives in Newport (RI) and Key Largo (FL), but “home” is on the east side of Manhattan. His passion in life is competitive sailing and he is Commodore of the New York Yacht Club, “which places me at the epicenter of the sport.” Contact info: Charles B. Creativity has been a constant flow in Nancy (Turner) Miller's life. She currently lives with her husband, Neal, in a beautiful foothills and vineyard area outside of Eugene, Oregon, where she has a metal sculpture studio, garden and two dogs. She goes backpacking into the wilderness several times a year. According to Nancy, “Neal and I are both involved in filmmaking. We have a feature film in limited release around Labor Day called “Raising Flag” starring Alan Arkin, which Neal directed, and we co-wrote.” (Check rubicon-films.com.) Before moving to Eugene in 1988, the Millers lived in Chicago where Nancy was a general contractor and property manager. Before that she traveled the country selling art from the trunk of her car. (“A wannabe hippie,” she says.) Nancy continues to sing. (“Singing has always been a passion of mine, as you all know, although I’ve never pursued it as a career.”) Three daughters—they live in Denver, Seattle and Corpus Christi—and three grandchildren have also blessed her life. Last year 62-year old Linne (Underdown) Forester passed the motorcycle test and is now driving a Honda Shadow. (“My mother would roll over in her grave.”) “Speed” can sum up other current activities. She’s run five marathons and still skis the black diamonds. After earning a degree in interior design from the University of Wisconsin (Madison), Linne lived in Wausau (WI) with her daughter and then-husband and pursued a design career. In 1977, she and her then-eight-year-old daughter moved to Minneapolis and she switched to selling real estate. (She retired last year.) According to Linne, “I have now been remarried to my dream man for seven years. We have 15 grandchildren and I acquired five stepchildren and their spouses.” Contact info: ohage@comcast.net.

This weekend is a big one for Linda (Vinton) Harrison, and it’s not just because of the reunion. Linda, who was active for many years with The Junior League of Birmingham, switched gears 10 years ago and has served as the Volunteer Coordinator for the Dream Cruise Birmingham event. She sells real estate full time and is still single (she is divorced) but reconnected with a friend “from back in our ‘last lives’” seven years ago. “My two daughters are great; my two grandchildren are great; life is good!” Contact info: 16036 Amherst Avenue, Beverly Hills, MI 48025; (248) 797-1213; lharrison@weirmanuel.com.

So why does R. Scott Wagner travel to Germany several times each year? “I go to play with my two-year-old grandson – grandpa’s boy!” he says. Semi-retired from the data communications business (selling optical fiber network backbone systems for large corporate and government campuses), Scott sails his boat on Lake Michigan and hangs out at his yacht club in Chicago. When he has time, he plays a little golf. His great joy is visiting with his daughter and her family. Both his daughter, who is currently deployed to Afghanistan, and son-in-law are Air Force sergeants stationed in Germany. Contact info: (847) 888-4842; scottwagner@wideopenwest.com.

Since 1993 Carol Walker has been enjoying the wide skies and big mountains of New Mexico. She creates monotypes—New Mexico pounded tin work—and does some small bits of silver jewelry. In addition she is involved with the Upaya Zen Center in Santa Fe. Carol adds: “The home I have now is my favorite ever. The view includes the Sandia Mountains and the Petroglyph Park, which provides beauty and a perfect walk just outside my back door.” Contact info: 4954 Quail Ridge Dr. NW, Albuquerque, NM 87114; (505) 899-1026; carolwalker@swcp.com

Since 1980 Gunilla “Nilla” Wennerberg has been the legal advisor at The University Hospital of Malmo in the south of Sweden. She lives in a flat with a view in her old university town of Lund, which is about 25 kilometers north of Malmo. Nilla’s summer retreat is a cottage with a small woodland area near the west coastline of Sweden (about 100 kilometers north of Lund). “I plan to retire in 2010,” she says, “When I am 67 years old.” Contact info: Thulehemsvagen 15, S-224 67 Lund, Sweden; Gunilla.Wennerberg@skane.se.

Ranch life in Montana is, sadly, a time of the past for Wendy Westrate. A few years ago, this happy ranch hand moved to Denver to be with her aunt, who can no longer live alone. So far, according to Wendy, things are going well and she and her aunt love to travel. She has visited all seven continents on various cruises during the last several years. Although she reports that Denver and traveling are pretty good alternatives, she misses her former life. “Once Montana gets in your blood, it stays there!” Contact info: 3734 S. For the past 27 years, Jane (Whitney) Bekolay has owned her own real estate company and has been active in the mortgage business. She has three children. Marc, who with his wife, Kelly, has two lovely girls, lives in West Bloomfield. (Jane’s grandchildren are Brooke, 6, and Samantha, 3.) Her son, Todd, lives in Royal Oak and is working in architectural design. Her daughter, Whitney, has a production company in San Francisco, and has participated in the Ironman competition in 2002-2005. Contact info: janie99@sbcglobal.net.
